EASTERN NEWS.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE OREGONIAN]

The Forgers' Scheme.

NEW YORK, Sept 7.—Detective Sampson says the amount of bogus bonds which forgers expected to negotiate in this country and Europe was $2,000,000 and that $100,000 are already on the market here. Two of the gang it is said left for Europe some time since with a large amount of forged bonds which are reported to have been already disposed of in English markets.

Financial.

NEW YORK, Sept 7.—The feature of the financial market has been the break down in gold and foreign exchange, the price of the former falling 2½ per cent and the latter advancing on that [illegible]. A feeling of general relief and mutual congratulation is noticeable over this turn of affairs, the power of cliques having been gauged and found to be much less formidable than had been supposed.

The California Cadets.

NEW YORK, Sept 7.—The San Francisco Cadets will give two exhibitions at the Academy of Music on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings next. On both occasions they will be escorted to and from the Academy and will have the aid of the Seventh Regiment Band.

F[illegible] Catholic Priest on Our Free School System.

At a mass meeting in St Peter's church, Father O'Farrell, in alluding to the dedication of his parochial school in the afternoon pronounced the public school system a failure. He believed that eventually the State must either make all education voluntary and with-[illegible]. A denomination supporting its own school, or else if taxes were raised for educational purposes each party must receive a fair share. At the dedicatory services in the afternoon the same clergyman said that he wished it understood that in this matter priests and people went together. It had been charged that they had entered into a conspiracy. It was true they had entered into a conspiracy, every man, woman and child of them and that they made no secret of it. They did not deny that they protested against supplying schools, to which Catholic children could not go, just as they would protest against being forced to attend a State church. They claimed as American citizens the privilege of educating their children as they pleased.

Butler's C[illegible]

SPRINGFIELD, Mass, Sept 7.—The Springfield Republican has returns from 742 delegates—nearly three fourths of the whole number to the Worcester Convention—divided as follows: Washburne, 394, Butler, 319, doubtful and contested, 29. There are 250 delegates yet to be elected. Of 101 delegates to come from the western part of the State the Republican estimates that Washburne will have nearly three-fourths, and of the remaining 2[illegible]8 about 125. As Washburne has now a clear majority of 46 the Republican considers him sure of 100 majority in the Convention.

A Yellow Fever Panic.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 7.—Conflicting reports come in regard to the prevalence of the yellow fever in Galveston, Houston and Shreveport. It is rumored that the Central International and Great Northern and Texas and Pacific Railroads have been blockaded and that it is impossible to ascertain anything of a reliable character. A perfect panic prevails in Galveston and Houston and north bound trains to-day and last night were crowded with people flying from both places.

Ex[press] Thief Caught.

CHICAGO, Sept 7.—A messenger of the American Express Company was arrested at Davenport, Iowa, yesterday while trying to escape with $50,000 in money and jewels which had been entrusted to his care.

Wreck of New Bedford Whalers and Sufferings of the Crews.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 8.—The schooner Abbie Bradford has arrived at this port from Hudson's Bay. She reports the loss of two New Bedford whalers, and brings home a portion of the crew of one of them. The particulars are as follows: On the 4th of September 1872, the bark Orray, Capt. Taft, at anchor near Marble Island, Hudson's Bay, parted her cables and went ashore and could not be got off. On the 9th of October following, the bark Ansel, Capt. Gibbs, went ashore in the same [illegible] and went to pieces. Taft had no oil but Gibbs had 560 barrels 11,600 pounds of bone, most of which was lost. No men were lost at the time of wreck, but both crews were obliged to live on the island until the 2d of August last. From exposure and lack of proper food they were attacked by scurvy. The winter was fearfully cold,—the most severe known for a number of years—so that natives of the island died by scores. The crews suffered exceedingly. Ten of the Gibbs crew and four of Taft's crew died. Among the dead of the crew of Gibbs are Murray and D McConnell, of Jacksonville, Illinois. Taft's crew and three of the crew of Gibbs will come home in another vessel.

Destructive Fire in Havana

HAVANA, Sept 7.—Last night a square of buildings known as the Plaza [illegible] was reduced to ashes. The fire broke out simultaneously in four corners of the square and is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary. It is reported that twenty lives were lost. The scenes around the square were exciting and terrible. Parents threw their children from the balconies to save them from the flames.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 8.—Last night the figures indicated the election of Bartlett, Ind, to the Senate and the defeat of Hallidie, Ind. A revision of the tables and the addition of later returns, show that Bartlett is defeated by Roach, Dem., 230 votes. Humphrey, Dem., is elected Surveyor, and Golden, Dem., Public Administrator; Morton, Ind, Harbor Master; Kent, Ind, Superintendent of Streets; Rice, Dem, for Coroner; Austin, Ind, Tax Collector; Harvey, County Clerk; Ashbury, Auditor; Taylor, Ind, for Harbor Commissioner.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 8.—A Chinaman hanged himself under a house on the corner of Pine and Powell streets this morning. He purchased a piece of rope for ten cents, fastened it to a beam and swung off. The Coroner has gone to take charge of the body.

It is stated that an effort will be made by the friends of I. Harrington, the slayer of Billy Dwyer, to procure his release on bail.

A fire at 1 o'clock this morning destroyed a frame house on Columbus street, owned by Wm English. Loss $2,000. It is supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

The Board of Supervisors will commence canvassing the returns at noon to-day.

The funeral of Wm Dwyer, killed by Harrington, took place yesterday, and was largely attended by members of the sporting fraternity.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 8.—Laura D. Fair appeared before the Lyceum of Self Culture yesterday and read a poem the purpose of which was to show that a fond mother had two boys—one rebel and the other federal—who went to the happy hunting grounds together where the mother succeeded in showing to the authorities that the son who wore the confederate grey was entitled to as much distinction as the other who wore the union blue. Discussion turned on the Bible as a text book in Public Schools, in which Laura took no part.

The Board of Supervisors has commenced the canvass of returns. It is still a question whether Bartlett or Hallidie is the successful Senator. Every probability is that Bartlett is successful.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 8.—It is now positively known that Bartlett and Roach are elected to the State Senate. Mistakes in calculating the returns gave the election to Hallidie to-day.

The U S District Attorney commenced suit to-day against the Central Pacific Railroad Co to obtain possession of 182 boxes of cheese valued at $20,000, and $600 damages for its detention on the road and here. The United States don't want the cheese, but claim that the bill for freight should be credited to the interest account of the Company, and as part payment of the interest on the bonds.

Bonfires were kindled in the vicinity of the residence of Jas Otis, Mayor elect, on Sutter street, to-night.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept 8.—John Irving, who confesses to a participation in the Nathan murder, New York, was in the presence of Detective Lees again to-night. He insists on the truth of his confession. He gave Lees a complete record of his crimes, convictions and imprisonments. To-morrow he will go before one of the Judges to swear to his statement which was taken in short hand by Mr Sumner. He says the dog with which Nathan was killed was not taken from the place named in previous accounts of the murder but says he will tell nothing further about it without guarantees of safety from New York officials. He adheres to his statement about the bonds and memoranda book taken from Nathan's safe and says he can produce all of them at the proper time. He says he has relatives of standing and means living on O'Farrell street in this city and in Stockton but declines to give the names at the present time. He says one is a banker in Stockton. He is very bitter against some New York detectives, and says if they denounce him as a liar and impostor he will peach on some of them and make them sweat. He scorns the story from New York that he has been a hen-roost robber. He always aspired to something in a higher line in his profession. Lees will send the statement to New York officials. Irving certainly takes his imprisonment here patiently. He says it takes back all right, he will remain willingly as long as he is wanted here. He thinks he would have no trouble in beating down the city prison and getting away but he doesn't want to play such a game. He says that parties in New York are afraid he knows more about the Nathan murder mystery than they do. He refers constantly to documentary proofs which he can produce for them at any time. He is given such guarantees as will save his own neck from the gallows and was induced to make a confession because a woman [illegible] and one of the confederates knows the secret.

Weather thick and foggy to-night, making navigation on the bay rather hazardous.

OREGON ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Third Day.

OLYMPIA, W T, September [illegible].

This day the Conference was preceded by a very interesting devotional meeting, led by Rev. J. H. Allyn. The Bishop attended, delivering at the close a fervent and appropriate exhortation.

The minutes were read and approved.

A communication from the Committee on Indian Missions was presented by Rev. Wm. Roberts. Referred to Committee on Indian Affairs.

Rev. Wm. Roberts presented the annual report of the Publishing Committee of the P. C. Advocate. On motion it was referred to the appropriate committee.

10th Question was resumed: Who are the Elders?

WALLA WALLA DISTRICT.

Rev. H. K. Hines, the Presiding Elder, represented this district. It includes four counties in Oregon and Washington Territory lying east of the Cascades and embracing an area of 75,000 square miles or a fourth larger than the State of New York, very much of the field still unoccupied. In Grant county there is no minister of any church. They anxiously desire one to come and occupy. Financially it has been a hard year. Six churches or church lots have been secured in Weston, Dayton and other places. The spiritual interests were represented as improving in many respects. Revivals were reported in most of the charges. At La Grande Bro. G. W. Adams was favored with a powerful revival, 120 persons being converted and added to the church. The relations of the preachers were all pleasant and harmonious. Bro. Hines in conclusion expressed his gratitude to God for preservation and success, and to his brethren in the district for their co-operation and fidelity.

Mr Hines was represented favorably by the brethren in his district. His character passed.

INDIAN MISSION DISTRICT.

James H Wilbur, Presiding Elder, represented the district. He had been placed in charge of all the Indian work in the Conference. His purpose to visit all the agencies but was prevented by ill health and superabundant labors in his own agency. Had rode more than 1000 miles in extra labor for the government outside of his own agency. Had good Indians on his own reservation. There was good degree of prosperity among them. One hundred and fifty conversions during the year. Of these 70 had united with the church and the rest would. At Warm Springs there had been some revival. Agent had reported some 40 conversions. At Siletz there had been 40 and at Klamath 40, making in all probably 250. The work among the Indians is growing in importance and if unmolested will yet rise to greater interest and consideration. The zeal and consistency of Indian converts and their exhibitions of piety were even greater than the whites. Had been twelve years among the Indians and acknowledged that he had Indian on the brain and would have white man on the brain if he sustained the same relation to them. His collections were as follows: Missionary $15; Bible $1; S S U $1; Fifth col $[illegible]; Tract $1; Church Ext $1; Bishop's claim $10.

The Indians had contributed themselves between two and three hundred dollars for the support of the gospel the past year.

[illegible] Petrie, Indian preacher, came forward and made the following speech, remarkable for brevity and expressiveness: "Father Wilbur is a number 1 Presiding Elder." Character passed.

W C Chattin—Missions $[illegible]; Con col $[illegible]; Woman's Mission $2; Bible cause $1; S S U $[illegible]; Tract $[illegible]; Freedmen's Aid $5; Church Ext $[illegible] and education $[illegible].
J Howard—absent. No reports.
The characters of the above were passed.

Rev. [illegible] Huntington of the Congregational Church was introduced by the Bishop and invited to participate in our deliberations. Bro. Huntington in a few fitting and appropriate remarks expressed in behalf of the Congregational Church his Christian regards. He rejoiced in the unity of all Protestant churches in all the essentials. They were divided to accommodate themselves but were one in spirit, heart and purpose.

W Roberts offered a resolution heartily reciprocating the kind words of Christian sympathy expressed by Bro. Huntington and to appoint some one at this Conference to carry our Christian greetings to the Congregational Association at its next meeting. It was carried.

The Committee on Division of the Conference reported recommending the division of the Conference. On motion it was amended so as to make the Cascade mountains the line of division. Made the special order for Saturday at 10 o'clock.

Resolutions were presented by Rev. [illegible] DeVore regretting the failure of the Book Agents to establish a Book Depository at Portland, [illegible] contemplated by the last General Conference, and requesting them to do so at their earliest convenience. Bro. DeVore defended the resolution with a few pertinent and pointed remarks.

W Roberts thought it best to be [illegible]. The Book Committee had approved of the action of the Book Agent and hence [illegible] Portland which will establish [illegible].

The hour having arrived for the special order, [illegible] for full membership the following candidates were called forward for examination: [illegible] Dennis, [illegible] Ward, C W Kennedy, A [illegible] Waters.

The Bishop proceeded to ask the usual disciplinary questions [illegible] were all answered satisfactorily.

Sunday School Anniversary.

The Anniversary of our Conference Sunday School Union was held at the M E Church in Olympia on Friday evening, Sept 6.

In the absence of the President, Rev. I. T. Woodward, on account of sickness, the Vice President of the Society, Rev. [illegible], was called to the chair.

Several fine [illegible] pieces were sung in excellent style by the choir, under the leadership of the superintendent, Dr. E. Willard, and prayer was offered by Dr. Thompson, Agent of the A. B. Society.

The first speaker of the evening announced was Rev. C. Alderson. He addressed the children in a very familiar and happy manner, asking them a few simple questions in regard to the Bible. Whom in the Bible do we read [illegible] that loves us? Whom that died for us? How do we know that Jesus is interested about children? What did he say about children? Is Jesus the same to-day? Where is he? Has he a place for us there? Can we go to Heaven in sin? How may we be cleansed from all sin? All these questions were answered by some of the little ones and appropriate comments added by the speaker. He told them about his own conversion when only ten years of age and urged all to seek the same Jesus who is the only way to Heaven.

After singing "We are sailing [illegible] ocean," the second speaker, Rev. J. W. Kuykendall, was introduced. He was glad of the privilege of addressing children and wished them all to look him in the eyes. He remarked that the first object of Sabbath schools was to teach children to read. Now it is the higher and nobler object of these institutions to train children for the skies, to teach them about Jesus. Children are as ready and willing to hear about Jesus as we to teach them. Saying many good things, the speaker closed with an affecting account of the death of his beloved little sister Ella, nearly all present pledging him to meet her in Heaven.

Again there was singing after which Rev. I. N. D. Denison addressed the meeting. Like the other speaker he loved to talk to children because children are innocent. Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven. They may be kept in a state of purity and innocence only as Jesus keeps them. He believed that children might grow up without sin, if they would only take Christ as their savior. He had known of one or two instances of the kind. He insisted on parents and teachers being careful to set good example. One of the highest motives which should prompt parents to seek Jesus fully is that they may set good examples before their children.

But we are here to talk about working for children. Do we talk to children about working for others? The other day he saw a big ocean ship at Portland which was unable to cross the river alone. A very small craft ran up alongside the great vessel and fastening to it moved it across the river easily and surely. So with these children. They may by their winning ways have an influence that will bring men and women—the great ones of life—over to Jesus. Children work for Jesus.

After another song by the choir the Chairman announced his desire to have Bishop Peck make a few remarks, and inquired of the children if they would like to hear him. All responding favorably, he would now ask the Bishop to speak.

BISHOP'S REMARKS.

So much of the evening had been occupied in addresses to the children the Bishop thought perhaps the general subject should now be presented to the audience. He observed that the principal difference between children and men and between men as good or bad [illegible] was attributable to education. But education to be thorough and useful must lead to a new life—to conversion. In this country and Europe our hope and strength is in the prevalent opinion that secular learning is not sufficient. All classes desire that children should be taught the principles of a pure morality. A man may be a magnificent poet as Byron and yet a man of debased morals. Something in education necessary that a young Byron may become a lofty and benevolent poet. Something necessary that children may become other than what they naturally would. This is felt in our public schools. There is wanted a high morality as is contained in the Bible. The Bishop illustrated his views by reciting the history of the Girard College for orphans. Through opposition to priestcraft all ministers were excluded from the College, and all religions. But in the will it was provided that the highest form of sound morality should be taught the children. Dr. Beach gave it as his opinion that the claim so far from forbidding the Scriptures made it their duty to introduce the Bible into the College, and with him all the directors agreed. Thus Providence overruled so those orphan children had furnished them the Bible, as the source of the purest morality known. Thus is that institution conducted to-day under the Presidency of Dr Wm H Allen. All who attempt to teach a pure morality must have the Bible.

The Bishop then stated and proved that the education of children in sound morality is provided for in the Old and New Testament scriptures. In the old by a system of family government which required the children to be taught these things diligently, and in the New by a system of discipleship including a covenant of baptism out of which should issue perpetual obligation to instruct children faithfully in all things to be done or to be left undone. In this is included the work of regeneration. Not secular but moral and religious education which is needed. Sabbaths and Sabbath schools are for children. The Sunday school is education taking charge of the hearts of children. These schools are a part of the church. Hence the breadth and permanency of this idea of religious education. The Bishop came 4000 miles to find in this meeting the universality of Sabbath schools demonstrated in their adaptation to children. He could not go so far as to find no Sabbath school except in savage life and barbarism. All should enter the Sabbath school, pastor, members and all.

The Bishop closed his excellent address with brief sketches first of a little boy who was converted under his ministry in California and remained faithful; second of an old man converted on his first circuit, Dryden, and became a minister and after thirteen years met him in the cars and said each year more than one hundred had been converted through his labors. Never underestimate the conversion of a child, that at least one child converted such as one [illegible] put into his hands—a daughter who [illegible] to India as a missionary and dying said to her daughters, "I leave you [illegible] with Jesus. I feel like a bird ascending through the air." She and her babes are now with Jesus. Keep the children in the arms of the church and bear them up to manhood in the pure faith and practice of the Gospel.

Fourth Day.

OLYMPIA, Sept 6th.

At 8 o'clock the Conference prayer meeting commenced and closed at 9 o'clock when the Conference was opened, Bishop Peck in the Chair.

The second question was taken up: Who are admitted on trial?

[illegible] Fossell recommended by the Salem Quarterly Conference; J M Reese and George Coffey recommended by the Cowlitz Quarterly Conference; E. J. Curtis by the Vancouver; Oliver Brewer by the Clatsop; G W Adams by the La Grande; and W J Koontz recommended by the Bellaire Quarterly Conference of Pittsburg Annual Conference, were all admitted on trial, each having passed the necessary examination and received the proper recommendation.

G W Adams having been duly recommended was elected to deacons orders.

The [illegible] admission into full connection was taken up.

J E Ward was admitted and elected to deacons orders.

W M Fletcher and M. Judy having passed the necessary examinations were duly elected to elders orders. The Bishop propounded in the presence of the Conference the usual disciplinary questions which were satisfactorily answered.

The special order of the day was taken up, viz: the resolution recommending the division of the Conference by the Cascade mountains. This resolution was ably supported by H K Hines who drew his arguments from the area of the country [illegible] of that portion of the Conference east of the mountains, the number of the appointments, [illegible] the future of the country, the population [illegible]. The resolution was [illegible] carried unanimously, the Bishop expressing afterwards [illegible] approval. The name of the [illegible] Conference, as suggested by the Bishop, will be East Oregon and Washington.

THE BUTLER WASHBURNE FIGHT

[illegible] FROM BUTLER

BOSTON, August 19.—General Butler took up after his private character in a letter published in this evening's Herald (Butler's organ) [illegible] this and Convention day.

BOSTON, August 15, 1873.

Sir: My attention has been attracted to some remarks reported in the papers to have been made in a body called the Temperance Union yesterday.

I should have assumed that a meeting professedly for the advocacy of a high moral movement would have been at least temperate in speaking evil of their neighbor. I do not propose, however, in this note to demean myself by answering or denying the unfounded slanders in which you choose to indulge, but simply to ask you to state to me the evidence on which you rely to justify them, that you yourself may see when you come to examine it how little foundation you have for your uttered calumnies.

I plead guilty to your charge of being an eminent criminal lawyer, and if I were to answer your assertion "that in order to attain a high rank in this department of law must involve a heavy load of moral turpitude," I should say that you reason as logically as one who says that "he who drives fat oxen must himself be fat." If you are right then the "self appointed" leader of the opposition to me, Judge Hoar, who defended the most important criminal case of the decade last winter, where I prosecuted the confessed criminal in behalf of the Government, must carry a very heavy load of moral turpitude.

Mr Choate, who was the most distinguished criminal lawyer of his time, Mr Webster, who was a very great criminal lawyer defending the most distinguished criminals of his time, as well as prosecuting them, equally come under your condemnation.

You accuse me of being ambitious. I plead guilty to ambition to be honored of my fellow-citizens in their reposing in my hands their highest interests.

I have no doubt that I was one of the most active enemies of the anti-slavery cause in 1835, but as that was my first year in college I do not remember the fact. What is your authority for the assertion?

Again you say that I went into the war comparatively a poor man. How do you know that? I lived in the same house, drove the same horses and the same carriage then that I do now, and kept the same number of servants, as my neighbors know. What is your authority for that assertion? That I came out of the war one of the richest if not the richest man of New England. What is your evidence for that assertion? Have you even examined the assessor's books to see my tax list, to know if I own other or different property then than now? You say "on his granite speculations for the Postoffice." What is your evidence for that assertion? "That he is acting as counsel for the Credit Mobilier job for large fees." What is your authority for that assertion? Do you know the facts, that I refused a large fee to defend the Credit Mobilier, and was never counsel for that corporation? Reflect a moment. Have you not simply gathered up and retailed in a public assembly miserable slanders of my enemies and newspaper assertions and made yourself responsible for them, a responsibility to which I intend to hold you unless you justify yourself by the proof? If I had gone to Congress a poor man of very moderate means, and had served for years as Chairman on the Committee on Claims—the only place in Congress, so far as I have ever heard, where a man can make a business of selling himself successfully and profitably, because it remains with the Chairman of such Committee to say what claims shall be considered, and any claimant will give 10 or 25 per cent of his claim, if it is a good one, to have it given priority on the list for consideration—and had come out of Congress reputed to be worth $500,000, while my equal partner in the [illegible] business had not come to any such fortune, if I had given evidence of such wealth, by building a house reputed to have cost $50,000, and had become a manager of a national bank upon my gains, and always voted in favor of the national bank interests while in Congress, would there not have been very considerably more ground of accusing me of having used my public position for my own emolument, especially if I had no more visible means of making money than you have now?

I accuse no one.

I call your attention to facts of this kind to show you how easy it is to find grounds of accusation of a public man if one simply condenses and distils all insinuations, rumor, slander and unjust inferences and charges, and asserts them as truths.

Now you are further pleased to say that I "have used intoxicating drinks, and have been known to be drunk." What evidence have you for that assertion and for what purpose do you make it? Do you refuse to co-operate politically with men who use intoxicating drinks? If so, you are not a follower of the Hamilton Hall meeting, advocating its candidate, when that meeting elected to preside over it a man well known as openly and publicly, notoriously and habitually using intoxicating liquors?

Suppose, Sir, that I should gather up, boil down and mould into a charge all the gossip, scandal and possible slanders that have circulated in the community or brought to me by your enemies about yourself, especially in connection with the other sex during your life, would you think it quite temperate or Christian for me to assert them on the rostrum as truths, and would you think it a full reparation and excuse when they were denied by those who knew them to be false to apologize by saying, as you did, "I have no intention of misrepresenting Mr. Fay."

You accuse me of being a profane man, and one Judd, your coadjutor in that Temperance Union, to whom you yielded the floor to sustain your accusation, is reported to have said that he had been obliged to burn the daily paper many times when they contained reports of Butler's speeches in the courts so that his family should not see them and that Butler was either a terribly profane and vulgar man or else reporters were criminal in putting into his mouth the things they did. I do not doubt the fact that Judd takes and reads very vulgar newspapers and must be very ignorant as well as a knavish falsifier or else he would have known that neither vulgar nor profane language is ever tolerated in the court of justice [illegible] of the commonwealth and that the lawyer who could so far forget himself and his high duties as an advocate as to use vulgarity or profanity in a speech in court would be at once stopped by the judge and severely punished. Did it occur to your comrade Judd or yourself when he told this pretentious and silly falsehood to slander me that he was [illegible] the courts of justice and the jurors before whom I was acting as an advocate, because of course I adapted my language to please and persuade the judges and juries to win my cause? What could have been the average intelligence of that Temperance Union which could patiently listen to such manifest lying drivel as that? I admit that if anything could [illegible] it would be to see the cause of temperance [illegible] by slander, calumny [illegible] and the vile misrepresentations which every thinking man knows must of necessity be lies.

I have the honor to be, with as much respect as possible, your obedient servant,

B F BUTLER

A company has gone to Denver on a tour of exploration in Arizona. They are still hugging the diamond delusion.

The schooner Esperanza, about the safety of which much fear existed, arrived at Steilacoom on Wednesday of last week.

Mr Geo A Woolner, of Seattle, has been tendered the position of Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue residing at Walla Walla.

Judge Gillespie of Idaho died at his residence in Boise City on the 3d inst. He was well and favorably known throughout the Territory.

The fair frail ones who fled from Salt Lake and have found a habitation in Alta, threaten to jerk Justice Clinton bald headed should he ever visit that city.

On Sunday night during a terrible thunder storm at Logan in Utah the lightning set fire to a number of wheat fields, destroying an immense quantity of grain.

Since the first of January 1873, 14,120 tons of Bellingham Bay coal have been received at San Francisco. There is now a stock on the market from that mine of 7,000 tons.

On Sunday, August 31, a boy named Adams was struck by lightning and instantly killed, at Richmond, Utah. At the same time five other lads were knocked down but were not fatally injured.

Mr Joseph M Snow has commenced the survey of Lummi Reservation into 40 acre lots, to be distributed among the Indians of the reserve desiring to avail themselves of the opportunity to secure land.

Mr A Green, of Sehome, on last Saturday received some severe injuries to the muscles of the back and side, caused by the falling of coal while in the mines. Happily no bones were broken, and the patient is doing well.

Messrs Harned and Yantis have united in making a request that the voters of Thurston county assemble at their usual places of voting on Tuesday Sept 30 to vote upon the proposition of issuing bonds for the construction of the railroad.

Gov Ferry has received a warrant from President Grant authorizing Sheriff Billings to demand and receive from the authorities of British Columbia the persons charged with the murder of the Dwyer family, on San Juan Island, in May last.

The County Commissioners of Thurston county refused to call a special election to allow the people to vote on the question of a subsidy for a railroad to Olympia. But the election will be held any way as some men are anxious to vote on the matter.

Mr William Munks, writing from Fidalgo, informs the Courier that Drs Calhoun, Taylor and Hill amputated Mr G. E. Crandall's foot on Sunday evening last, and that he is now doing finely. It will be remembered that Mr Crandall was injured by the contents of a spring gun, sometime since.

There was organized last week in Waitsburg the first Farmers' Grange organized in Washington Territory. R P Olds was made its Master, and N Hendryx, Secretary. An organization was also effected at Dayton, with Geo Hunter as Master. Mr Garretson, National Deputy, organized also, recently, two Granges in Walla Walla.

Marshal Kearney left Olympia on Thursday, with Hathaway and Andrews, U S prisoners for San Quentin, where under the sentence of the court the two prisoners are to serve out their terms of imprisonment—Andrews for one year, for robbery on the high seas, and Hathaway for three years, for shooting with intent to murder.

The following is a list of the officers of the Masonic Grand Lodge, of Washington Territory, for the ensuing year elected at the present session: D C H Rothschild, W G M; J R Hayden, D W G M; Thos. S Russell, G S W; E S Salomon, G J W; Benj Harned, G T; and T M Reed, G S. The appointed Grand officers will be announced in due time.

The Olympia Transcript of the 6th inst says:

A man recently from Colorado whose name we have not ascertained, came up from Chehalis on Wednesday for surgical aid, having his arm badly fractured by the accidental discharge of a gun. He was at the new house of Mr Charles Biles, and was standing on the sill of the building when attempting to look at his watch, his gun slipped out of his hand and was discharged, the charge passing through his arm below the elbow, completely shivering the bone.

Southern Utah, says the Beaver Enterprise, has mountains of crude iron, and deposits of coal so vast and scattered over so great an extent of Territory, as to insure a certain supply to the world for ages to come. Ease of extraction unequalled in quality, as can be easily proven to any expert who may wish to test it. How long will be unheeded? Beaver, Iron and Washington counties possess mineral in quantities to enrich the world, and coal sufficient to supply twenty worlds, yet here they lie awaiting patiently the advent of capital and brain.

A correspondent says: "With the farmers of Skagit Valley, money is a scarce commodity at present, but crops are plentiful. Our oats and barley will be in such abundance that we have not sufficient buildings to hold it. The estimated average yield will be seventy five bushels per acre. The total grain yield in the valley will be close on to a thousand bushels, besides the hay and root crops which [illegible] be estimated at fifty thousand bushels more. Harvest hands and others are in great demand at present and are paid at the rate of about two dollars per day with board. To good industrious farmers having teams &c I would say, Come and look at the land in Skagit Valley, especially that portion bordering on Swinomish. The land is rich and level, free from stumps &c, and yields in the greatest abundance. At present you can either buy or rent on good terms and your market is at your doors."

The Transcript says: Mr E Tarbell, of Washington Territory, has been collecting specimens of grain for the land department of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company which are to be exhibited at Chicago on the 24th inst at the State Industrial Exposition. They are all very fine and are a good advertisement of what the Territory produces. We enumerate some of them: Wilson Hawk of [illegible] county sends wheat six feet six inches in length, timothy eight feet, one head measuring 13½ inches, oats eight feet. Owen Bush [illegible] county, oats called Schone raised on the Des Chutes bottom eight feet [illegible] yielding 45 bushels. Good samples of wheat, barley and oats from James Smith of Chehalis river; oats 44 pounds to the bushel, called the Surprise oats. Extra samples of wheat from Coe Creek near South Bay, called Australian spring wheat. One barrel apples, plums and pears were sent last week to the same destination, and specimens of grains and fruit will be forwarded to other State fairs during the season.

OREGON

We hear of a runaway on French Prairie in which four horses attached to a large sized reaper took part. The grain for some distance was cut at the rate of about 300 acres a minute.

News of such unprecedented yield comes to our ears. It is our desire to hear of anybody who can "beat it—anywhere!" Mr O'Hara, near Weston, Umatilla county, has raised a crop of oats this season which averaged fully 125 bushels to the acre. Let us hear from some one else.

G W Dunlap has several specimens of silver quartz taken from a ledge on Granite Creek, Grant county, Oregon, and discovered by Mr Dunlap some nine years ago. The rock is pronounced to be very rich. Several quartz men were lately taken to this ledge by Mr Dunlap from whence they have just returned and they pronounce it good.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Harvesting is progressing with great rapidity in all the districts. The yield is immense.

The Revenue Cutter Lincoln has been taken to Victoria to undergo extensive repairs to her boilers.

On the 3d inst a grand naval review, in which all the war ships on the station joined, took place off Beacon Hill, near Victoria, before Vice-Admiral Hillyar and Rear Admiral Cochrane. Rear Admiral Pennock of the U. S. Navy, was present by invitation.

Mr. H L Jones, of Langley & Co, having submitted the specimens brought in from Tiedeman's discovery to test in Victoria, pronounces them to contain tin. The supply seems to be inexhaustible and the discovery has created considerable excitement.

A few days ago an attack was made upon the "Advance" at Sapperton, in Yale District, by an Indian, who was subsequently reinforced by two others. The landlord and lady were, however, too much for them and they were handed over to the civil authorities.

At the meeting of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, the following officers were elected: A. Rhodes, President; T. L. Stahlschmidt, Vice-President; R. Plummer, Secretary and Treasurer; Arbitration Committee, G J Findlay, M T Johnston, P McQuade, E. Sutro, F J. Roscoe, A J Langley.

CROSSING NIAGARA ON A ROPE.

Signor Henry Balleni, an Italian, astonished the visitors at Niagara Falls, Monday afternoon, by crossing the chasm on a tight rope, as Blondin did years ago, and subsequently diving from the middle of the rope into the river below, a feat which his predecessor did not attempt. The rope, 1,500 feet in length, was stretched from Prospect Park, on the American side, to near the Clifton House on the other. Both shores were crowded with spectators long before the time announced for the performance. About 4 o'clock Balleni appeared on the Canadian side and began to walk out, but after a few steps returned and ordered the cable to be tightened. When this was done, at 4 45 o'clock the start was made. "All action and conversation," says the Buffalo Express in its report of the affair, "was now suspended, and every one's attention was given to the man on the rope, who moved along, apparently with the greatest ease, to the music of the Drummondsville band, which was stationed in front of the Clifton House. At 4:54 he reached the middle of the rope, where he halted to return his salutation to the tremendous applause which greeted his exploit. After resting himself for a brief period, the Signor started on his tramp. This was the only stop made, and at 5:10 o'clock the perambulist, looking as pale as death, had reached the American end of his rope, he having made the trip in twenty-five minutes. After another rest of thirteen minutes Signor Balleni again took his pole in hand and was off to the middle of the rope to make the great leap. It took him just six minutes to arrive at the centre of the rope, and when there, he at once began to make preparations to jump. While thus engaged he lost his balance-pole, which fell into the water and sank. A cord six feet long, made of rubber bands, was attached to the rope, at a point just 115 feet above the surface of the water. Balleni caught hold of one end of the elastic cord before the spectators thought he was ready to go. He descended like an arrow, and the recovering snap of the rubber was almost simultaneous with the loud splash of his fall in the water. No sooner was the splash heard, than the head of the Signor was peeping out of the water and he struck out vigorously and heartily toward the boat, which was there to pick him up. He was quickly hauled into the little craft, carefully wrapped up with heavy blankets and rowed to shore.

The Signor intends to give exhibitions of this character every Monday and Wednesday during the season, and next Wednesday he will walk blindfolded, wheel a barrow over the rope, besides performing on a trapeze, etc. He is worth seeing, and doubtless will draw large assemblages during his stay.—N. Y. Times Aug 28th.

A YOUNG JEHU.—Some of the recent achievements of a youthful lover of horse flesh in Minneapolis, Minn., are thus narrated by the Tribune of that city: "Arthur Stevens, the four and a half year-old, who appropriated Attorney-General Cornell's horse recently, and kept him waiting for one hour or more, yesterday unhitched the horse of R D Beede, which was standing in front of Gale & Co's, tied the halter around the shaft and started. H A Gale stopped him, when he indignantly demanded that Mr Gale 'clear the track,' as he 'drove every day' and 'knew what he was about,' and Mr Gale concluding that it might be all right, let him go. The boy drove down Nicollet avenue, when the horse took fright—at the whip—and off he started. Officer Boyd rushed out at the Second street crossing at imminent risk to himself, caught the rein, tripped, fell under the horse and was considerably bruised. The horse ran on till the buggy struck a post and the horse parted company therewith, turning up Hennepin avenue to Second street, where he was captured. The boy also parted company with the buggy at the post mentioned and was picked up in an insensible condition. He rallied in a few moments and started for home. Will Deshon met him and carried him home in a buggy. Arthur's father was soon notified, borrowed Judge Beebe's buggy and went home, where he found the boy doing as well as could be expected. While he was congratulating his wife that the boy had learned a lesson which other means had failed to teach, the boy quietly left the room, started out, and was about taking a ride after Judge Beebe's pony when he was stopped."

A sad case of death from starvation is reported by the London papers. On August 9th Dr Hardwicke held an inquest in Camden Town on the body of Henry Ryan, aged 32. It appeared that the deceased had been editor of a French newspaper. The journal being suppressed by the authorities he came over to England and endeavored to gain a livelihood by translating manuscripts. He underwent great privations and finally was taken to St. Pancras Workhouse in an almost exhausted state. Though promptly attended to he gradually sank and died. The post mortem examination showed that death had been occasioned by exhaustion and consumption. Verdict accordingly.

THE OLD DISCUSSION RENEWED

Th[illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] man [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] a column [illegible] the continuing [illegible] than world against the acceptance of any theory [illegible] [illegible] with the literal six [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] sixth [illegible] history from Adam [illegible] the present time [illegible] [illegible] contest [illegible] the scientists [illegible] [illegible] almost [illegible] occurrence [illegible] from the pulpit in language that cannot be reconciled with any other than the scientists view of the question Like the literal lake of fire and brimstone that used to occupy a considerable portion of the space allotted to the human race after death the literal days of creation have ceased to be mentioned in the pulpit

The revival of the discussion in the Observer is provoked by the appearance of a fourth edition of Sir Charles Lyell's Geological Evidences of the Antiquity of Man or else the appearance of this fourth edition is taken as an occasion for the new assault Over Lyell's shoulders Sir John Lubbock is given a vigorous castigation for his haste in forming conclusions respecting the age of the prehistoric man which were not based upon a sufficiently solid foundation and the fact that scientific men do not unanimously agree to the evolution theories of Mr Darwin is cited to show that scientific men are liable to mistakes, and their reasoning ought to be subjected to the utmost scrutiny before their conclusions are adopted.

Sir Charles and Sir John, and the rest of the titled savans will probably survive this attack but the instances cited by the Observer of the haste of so-called science in forming conclusions upon a consideration of only a part of the facts bearing upon the case are enough to make one a little chary of accepting everything for science that may be uttered by men of acknowledged position in the scientific world The inimitable satire of Mr Bret Harte's poem on "A Pliocene Skull" like the dime novels was "founded on facts" If the human bones that have been exhumed at divers places from the midst of such geological formations as have compelled the scientists to refer their origin to periods a few scores of thousands of years prior to the historic man could only be endowed for a moment with intelligence and the power of speech, we opine that not a few of them would spend that precious moment in begging to be carried back to England and France and Massachusetts and "Old Missouri" and buried there, beside the kindred bones that have nice white tombstones over them

MEXICAN CLAIMS COMMISSION

On the 20th ult, the United States and Mexican Claims Commission held its first formal meeting after the death of Dr Liebee, the umpire The American Commissioner (Mr Wadsworth) presented for record the commission of his new colleague, Senor de Zamacora who thereupon subscribed the declaration of office Mr Ashton, the agent of the United States presented to the Commission the letter appointing Senor Avila as agent for the Mexican Republic The question of filling the place of Dr Liebee being brought forward by the agent of the United States the Commission stated that the matter had been under consideration by them and that so soon as a solution of it could be reached, another meeting of the Commission would be called and the result announced. It is supposed the death of Dr Liebee will make it necessary to go over again much of the work already performed, as it will be necessary in case of disagreement between the Commissioners that the umpire should be in possession of all the evidence Cases in which the evidence had been taken but no decision reached before the death of the former umpire will have to be heard de novo after the appointment of the new umpire, except those in which the Commissioners shall agree upon a verdict thus rendering an umpire unnecessary

The supplemental treaty under which these proceedings are being had merely extends the time in which those claims may be examined, which were filed under the old treaty and does not admit the presentation of any new ones

Unless some means can be devised to put a stop to the mutual raiding of the citizens of each Government upon the other the mixed tribunal for the adjudication of damages arising out of these raids should be continued The plan of submitting international disputes to arbitrators—which is nothing more nor less than creation of international courts of justice with special jurisdiction—is such a triumph of Christian civilization over the barbarous practice of settling them with the sword that the system should be mutual and perfect as one fraught with blessings to all lands The expense of maintaining such an international court to determine questions between our citizens and those of our sister Republic such as the one now under investigation would be [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] with the cost of a single military expedition to say nothing of the importance of preserving and cultivating amicable [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

MORE PREPARATION TO BOLT

The Oregon City Enterprise is evidently "preparing to bolt"—we believe that phrase is now understood to be applicable to any journal that has independence enough to express an opinion upon any subject touching party policy Here is evidence point blank against the Enterprise, taken from its own columns

But if instead of our nominating such a man we advisedly nominate one who though opposing Holladay and his schemes one year is found lobbying for the most outrageous of his exactions the next we not only forfeit the sympathy of a large portion of the Radical party but seriously endanger the undivided support of our own The great coming issue prophesied by Charles Francis Adams two years ago and already foreshadowed by the general uprising of the farmers throughout the Northwest by the late judicial election in Illinois and by the recent exciting political canvass in California, is a firm and unyielding opposition to monopolies in all their forms but most especially opposition to the greatest of all—the railroad monopolies Upon this issue the Democratic party of Oregon has always had a record satisfactory to this popular uprising of the people When Mr Holladay two years ago attempted to procure from the Legislature of Oregon the right to take from the pockets of the tax payers of the city of Portland $300 000 with interest for 20 years the most of the Democratic members of the Oregon Legislature opposed such a scheme of robbery and a fearless Democratic State Executive when such a law had passed did honor to himself and the Democracy of the State by placing thereon his veto Now shall the Democracy of Oregon endorse this record or shall they blacken or deface it and thereby cover themselves with shame

If our next Democratic Convention nominate a man who left the care of his herds bovine and porcine for the purpose of lobbying for that bill what else would such action be but a virtual condemnation of our State Executive of the great majority of the Democratic members of that Legislature and of opposition to such legislation itself? If such a nomination is made what inducement will the Democratic party hold out to its members to remain steadfast to principle and unyielding in opposition to the aggrandizing plottings of monopolies? None at all Such a nomination would rather be a virtual instruction to the members of the party that the safe road to preferment is to abandon principle and plough for their enemies

Is there some faithful Democratic organ that will denounce the Enterprise as a disorganizer? It ought to be done by all means Admitted that the editor of that journal out of his lingering affection for the party has sandwiched into this incendiary document a slice or two of absurd bunkombe in praise of the glorious record of the Democratic party, and the immense spinal column of our Democratic Governor, and that too at enormous expense in the way of wear and tear of conscience has he not indicated by telling some hard cutting truths his disposition to desert his party? When Mr Ben Butler wants to say anything he says it in very vigorous Anglo-Saxon notably if the thing to be said relates to an opponent's character It is almost a tradition in Massachusetts that he is the best hated man in New England He knows this and used to feel it keenly A Machiavellian by nature if he were to choose a legend he could find none more appropriate than Piccalomini's maxim "It is better to be feared than to be loved" Knowing the man and his remarkable faculty for making enemies his [illegible]

A Washington dispatch of September 1 gives the following description of the differences between the genuine and counterfeit five hundred dollar legal tender note issue of 1869

The upright that holds the balance of the scales is held in the hand of a female figure and shows a white line in the counterfeit in the lower part of the palm of the hand toward the end finger In the genuine it to the upright is quite black and lost in the shadow of the lower part of the right lapel of the coat in the portrait of Adams in the counterfeit it forms an angle In the genuine it is a distinctly curved line Also the buttons on the counterfeit are irregular in shape, while in the genuine they are decidedly round and dark in color Particular attention is called to the button on the left side of the coat in the counterfeit In the word Washington in the counterfeit note the black shade forming the first stroke of the letter W forms an angle at the bottom In the genuine it forms a curve In the ruled shading under the right hand stroke of the letter W and over the letters A and S there are four ruled lines on the counterfeit There are but three in the genuine note Under the letters A and S in the word Washington in the counterfeit there are five ruled lines in the genuine four Also under the letter H in the same word there are four ruled lines in the counterfeit and in the genuine three At the bottom of the letter [illegible] in the denomination title there are five ruled lines in the counterfeit in the genuine six The localized fibre on the left of the portrait is blue in the genuine without color In the counterfeit a red seal in the genuine it is printed in delicate carmine color In the counterfeit is more of a brick color and has a heavy appearance more especially the rays which form the outside of the seal Attention is called to the blurred and scratched appearance of the lathe work and the lettering on the back of the counterfeit which upon comparison with the genuine will be readily perceived

This is the way the farmers of McHenry county Illinois look at it

Resolved That we the farmers of McHenry county in convention assembled do disapprove the action of our county supervisors in accepting the pro rata share of the public money stolen from the United States Treasury by our late representative in Congress (Farnsworth)

"Who dares to spit tobacco juice on the car floor" savagely asked a burly passenger on a Rock Island train

"I dare" quietly replied a slender youth suiting the action to the word

"You're the chap I'm looking for" said the ruffian "give me a chaw"

No man should be without a good suit of clothing while BECK & WALDMAN are offering goods at remarkably low prices You will be astonished when you take a look at their stock which has been and is being increased to such an extent that more space must be had to give place to the new arrivals Don't wait but improve the opportunity to invest at the present time You will never regret your purchases of Beck & Waldman S W cor of Washington and First streets

TUESDAY MORNING SEPT 9 1873

CITY.

UNLOOKED FOR DENOUEMENT.—"The course of true love never did run smooth," so says Divine William in the Midsummer Night's Dream. We are inclined to believe that a couple of lovers—male and female of course—who were out enjoying a quiet stroll under the lovely rays of pale Luna on Sunday evening fully endorse the truth of the above quotation. About 10 o'clock on Sunday evening a couple were observed moving very leisurely down Fourth street. The young gentleman was distressingly assiduous in his attentions and the young lady in turn was leaning in the most loving manner on the escort's arm. Just as they reached the intersection of Washington street a third party appeared on the scene. It was the mother of the truant young lady who was in no very amiable temper. Angry at the continued absence of the daughter, the mother had started out to find the wayward miss. She had evidently been looking vainly for some time. The single orb of the night accidentally fell on the well known dress and figure of the daughter, as revealed by the clear light of the moon, and while the girl wholly oblivious to surroundings and perfectly unconscious of the proximity of maternal presence, was luxuriating in the elysium fields of love for aught we know the old lady swooped down like a vulture on an unsuspecting dove. And the way in which she gobbled up that young lady should be a caution to all young men. She laid violent digits on the person of the daughter and marched her off home quicker than the twinkling of an optic, with the very pertinent remark that, "I'll teach you a lesson about promenading up and down Fourth street after night without my permission!" Several persons, who happened to be passing were involuntary spectators of the little affair. Inherent poverty in language forbids an attempt to adequately describe the state of the young man's mind. In no very seraphic mood he retreated in great disorder from the immediate vicinity of the scene. Probably he will ask the next young lady he promenades with the pertinent conundrum, "Does your mother know you are out?"

REPORTED SOLD.—If reports are to be credited it would seem that the lively little steamer Oneatta which has of late months so frequently made the Columbia and Wallamet fairly spume with the fearfully rapid revolutions of its wheels is soon to be transferred to other waters. We have been informed that this little craft has recently been sold to some party residing at Victoria and that she will soon be taken over to that port for service. We do not vouch for the truth of the report but only give publicity to the facts as rumored for what they are worth. For several months past until within a few weeks, the Oneatta has been plying between Vancouver and Portland as an opposition steamer to the Carrie. Repairs being deemed necessary, the boat was hauled temporarily off the line about three weeks ago since which time she has been tied up on the east side of the river. No repairs have been made as yet so that the report appears quite plausible. She owner has probably concluded to withdraw the boat from the opposition route and sell her.

SURGICAL AID.—We learn from our evening cotemporary that Dr Kinney received a dispatch yesterday morning from McMinnville asking his immediate presence at that place for the purpose of amputating the leg of Mr Fred. Smith which was broken in a saw mill last Wednesday. It was at first supposed that the limb could be saved without the necessity of amputation but mortification has set in and he is now lying in a very critical condition. As no trains depart until this morning, the doctor started in a buggy immediately as the recovery of the sufferer seems very doubtful. The limb was broken in two places beside being torn and lacerated in a horrible manner, by being caught in the belt of a planing machine that was running at lightning speed.

CAUGHT IN THE WHEEL.—Last Saturday the steamer Oneonta, while on the way to this city narrowly escaped having one of her wheels broken. The boat had just steamed out from the wharf at the Cascades and was turning around, when the large hawser, called the "[illegible] line, which was not pulled in soon enough became entangled in one of the wheels. Serious damage would have resulted, as the hawser was large and very powerful had not the machinery been stopped as quickly as possible. The steamer floated down the river some distance before the obstruction was removed. At length the rope was disentangled and the steamer proceeded to the city without further delay. No damage whatever resulted to the wheel.

DEATH OF A PRINTER.—Mr Harry H Sinclair, a well known printer of Portland departed this life last evening at 11 o'clock at the residence of his brother in law Mr U E Hicks. Mr Sinclair was a compositor for several years in the Herald office. About three years ago he removed to Washington Territory, where he has resided until within two months past. He was a respected member of the craft. He was in the 28th year of his age, a native of Canada, and leaves a wife and one child to mourn his departure. His disease was consumption.

WILL BE EXAMINED.—Before the United States Commissioner, Wilcox an examination will be held this morning of William Niblo, one of the sailors of the Edward James. Some days ago Niblo was arrested by the U S Marshal on a charge of desertion. He signed articles of shipping but did not join the ship in time. The merits of the case will be examined into this morning and the defendant either held to answer or discharged.

WILL BE RETURNED.—From private dispatches received yesterday in this city it is learned that the M E Conference at its session in Olympia have decided to return to Portland for another year, Rev Geo W Izer. This is strong evidence of the popularity of this reverend gentleman he having already held the pastorate of the Taylor Street Church for two consecutive years.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—This morning at 11 o'clock the Democratic State Convention will meet at Oro Fino Theater. As is well known, the object of the Convention is to put in nomination a candidate for Congress to fill the vacancy created by the death of the late Hon Joseph G Wilson. A full delegation will be present most of the counties we learn being represented.

LOW.—The stage of water on the Upper Wallamet is extremely low and boating attended with great difficulty. The steamer Gov Grover will arrive this evening from Fairfield with a load of wheat for shipment to foreign ports. Vast quantities of grain are stored in warehouses along the river awaiting the Fall rise of the river so as to admit of shipping by boat.

ANTI-CRUELTY SOCIETY

[illegible] INCORPORATION OF THE [illegible] SOCIETY IN [illegible] OF THE PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

Humanitarians have for a number of years past been agitating the subject of the organization of a society in the State for the prevention of cruelty to dumb animals and have also endeavored to secure legislation upon the matter by the passage of stringent laws which should render persons who practice heartless cruelties on the brute creation liable to severe penalties. That abuses exist which ought to be corrected and that cruelties are almost daily practiced upon dumb animals that should be prohibited all will admit. Efforts have frequently been made by humanely disposed persons to reach effectively and to secure the abolishment of those cruelties to animals that reflect disgrace upon the present condition of society but such honorable endeavors have never been destitute of good fruits.

Actuated by such noble and Christian motives a few citizens of Portland who had been laboring for nearly two years to elicit public interest and sympathy in the movement made an effort to secure the passage of a law last fall. A bill was drawn up which it was thought would meet every feature of the case. This bill came up on its second reading and was referred to the appropriate committee. However amid the bustle and excitement of that memorable session the bill never left the committee room and thus legislation on the subject was not effected. Since that time the friends of the cause have been indefatigable in their efforts to effect the organization of a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and to secure legislative action. At length such efforts have been crowned with success and a Society has been formed.

Yesterday articles of incorporation were filed in the office of the County Clerk by the following named gentlemen: B Goldsmith, Philip Wasserman, T B Babbitt, J L Cardwell, James Steel, J A Chapman, J M Parrish, Wm Wadhams, Henry Failing, J H Woodard, W S Ladd, J J Eliot, Wm T Shanahan, C C Strong and John B Pilkington.

The name of the Association will be known as the Oregon Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

The object purpose and business of the Society shall be to enforce such laws as now exist in the State or which may hereafter be enacted and in force to prevent cruelties to animals to stimulate and encourage generally a humane and considerate treatment of the lower orders of animate beings.

The value of property and money possessed by the Society at present is $2[illegible] the source of revenue of the Society is such proportions of fines imposed on conviction of violations of the laws as the Society may by law be entitled to receive also donations that may be from time to time made in furtherance of its objects.

The officers of the Society shall be a President, five Vice Presidents one Recording Secretary one Corresponding Secretary, one Treasurer and such other subordinate officers as the Society may see proper to direct.

The duration of the Society will be perpetual.

The location of the principal office of the Society is Portland.

As required by the articles a meeting of the incorporators will be held within one week from the filing of the papers. At the meeting an election of officers is to be held and the organization of the Society will be perfected.

Every humane citizen will rejoice that the ball has at length been set in motion and will no doubt sympathize with and heartily cooperate in the movement. The noble object sought to be secured by this Society commends itself at once to the humane and Christian sentiment of the community.

OREGON MUSEUM.

Yesterday we called at the room in Smith's Block which is being fitted up by T A. Wood for a Museum. We have alluded before to this very laudable undertaking. Mr Wood has long had in contemplation the establishment at a State Museum in this city, but he was deterred for some time from inaugurating the enterprise by circumstances of an adverse nature. He at length completed all necessary arrangements for carrying forward his cherished schemes. A few weeks before the fire Mr Wood came to Portland and immediately began the work required. First a large airy, commodious room was secured in Smith's building and several carpenters were set at work to make show cases tables, etc. The most of these latter articles were completed when the fearful holocaust swept over the city and destroyed them all. In addition, Mr Wood lost a valuable piece of property. The loss of the building placed him in rather straightened circumstances for the time being and the destruction of the required articles also added to the general delay, and tended to seriously cloud the prospects of success of the enterprise. But after the suspension of operations for a short time work was renewed and at present is moving forward at an encouraging rate. A number of long tables have been made on which specimens are being placed for exhibition besides a very large show case which is designed to contain stuffed birds, bugs, and other objects of natural history. This case is 18 feet long 7 feet wide and about 12 feet high. It is enclosed on the sides and ends with glass. Wooden terraces are built up from the bottom of the case to the height of about four feet pyramidal in form. Along on these shelves are to be arranged the specimens. Spectators can obtain a good view of each and every specimen which the case may contain, as the glass does not obscure in the least the vision. On Wednesday a large number of articles are expected to arrive from Salem at which place they have been stored for some months for safe keeping until the museum is opened in this city. This collection embraces about 800 specimens and will constitute a nucleus of invaluable importance in the formation and establishment of a future museum. Immediately on the receipt of these specimens they will be arranged in the case and on the tables. Time will be requisite to have everything in complete readiness so that the museum will probably not be formally thrown open to public inspection before the first of next month. Mr O B Johnson the well known taxidermist of East Portland will be connected with the museum. He will add his handsome collection of stuffed birds to the museum which he has been gathering for the last two years. Contributions are expected from other portions of the State by Mr Johnson in the course of a few months. These specimens will consist of birds, animals, bugs and many rare curiosities from the great storehouse of Nature. Prior to his departure from this State Mr Harry Edwards the popular actor who is likewise an ardent and enthusiastic student of natural history and entomology promised to send Mr Johnson 100 different species of bugs and butterflies which have been collected principally from Australia. These will be donated to the Oregon Museum and added to the collection already made as soon as they are received. Within six months from the opening of the museum it is hoped that a very respectable showing can be made. From time to time curiosities and specimens will be added as rapidly as they can be procured. To secure this desirable result and render the museum attractive and worthy of support contributions are respectfully solicited from all portions of the State and Washington Territory.

THE FATE OF THEODOSIA BURR

In your edition of Tuesday you have an article concerning the daughter of Aaron Burr. She was indeed the good angel of that misguided man and to James Parton we owe our knowledge of her sweet and lovely character. There is a mystery connected with her disappearance and as you say the vessel never reached its destination was never heard from after leaving Charleston harbor. With your permission I will tell you what I know of the matter. What I am about to relate may be traditionary in a degree but still may possess a peculiar interest to the reader. It was understood at the time that the cause of Theodosia's coming North to her father was because of the difference between herself and husband regarding Burr. Theodosia defended her father's actions while Governor Alston denounced them. This was the cause of a separation. Theodosia embarked in a vessel for New York in the care of a Mr Gray a wealthy South Carolinian. She took two of her children with her also a large quantity of family plate. Tidings of her departure reached New York and her arrival was anxiously looked for by the lonely old man. But alas she never came. The bereaved father gave her up as dead whether the vessel foundered at sea or what happened they never knew. At this time my great grandfather Philip Freneau visited Burr. As he entered the office Burr met him and grasping his hand said Mr Freneau I know what you come for, I have received no tidings I am desolate.

As he spoke the tears gushed from his eyes and he cried like a child. Freneau tried to reassure him but to no effect the conviction that she was lost to him could not be shaken. Touched by the grief of the wretched father Freneau sent him a poem entitled Theodosia in the Morning Star which was published in one of the early editions of his poems. Deprived of the only being who loved him friendless and alone, the old man gradually sank, until death ended his grief. Now comes the mysterious part of the sad story. I cannot vouch for the truth of it and have been unable to procure anything of a documentary nature bearing upon the subject. Many years ago a notorious pirate named Gibbs was captured, brought to this port and condemned to be hung and gibbeted. On his condemnation he made a confession and among other crimes confessed to having captured the vessel which contained Theodosia Alston. He said that he received information that a vessel intended leaving Charleston having on board plate of great value. He resolved to lay in wait for her he did so and captured the vessel, with all on board. In the struggle for the possession of the ship many of the crew and officers were killed. Gibbs resolved to put the survivors to death as the safest way of disposing of them. Mrs Alston begged for the lives of herself and children she offered him all the wealth she possessed and promised to secure him from harm. She kneeled to him and entreated him in the most beseeching tones but the pirate was inexorable. He said that if he saved them he must save the rest, and that he could not do. He now forced them to walk the plank. The turn of the two little boys came and as they disappeared in the sea, the mother firmly and proudly stepped off the board to follow them. Whether this is the true story of the fate of Theodosia I do not know. If there is a copy of Gibbs' Confession in existence, this incident would very likely be mentioned. If true, it was well that Burr was spared the additional pain of learning the mode of his daughter's death. I give it for what it is worth.—C Townsend Harris in Daily Graphic.

HOW HE GOT RID OF HIM

At the New Year, which is kept as a great festival in Persia, religious mendicants go about, not so much asking for alms as insisting upon a fixed sum. They generally tax a foreign ambassador rather highly, and one of them a dervis, demanded an extravagant sum from Sir John McNeill. The Scotch diplomatist offered to compromise with him for any reasonable amount, but this offer was refused and as he would not give more, the dervis proceeded to sit upon him. He established himself in Sir John's garden just before his study windows, and every now and then during the day and whenever he woke up at night, this dervis set up a horrible hullabaloo and blew a cracked trumpet as if the judgment had come. Sir John who did not like to have his rest disturbed in this way, determined to put a stop to the dervis tricks, and eject him by force but he was solemnly warned by the Persian authorities that it would be dangerous to lay hands upon the dervis. "Get rid of him if you can," said they laughing as they are wont to do at a minister's perplexity, but do not touch him.

Very well, said Sir John dryly and he sent for a bricklayer.

"Build me a wall round that howling beggar in my garden said Sir John to the bricklayer and then roof it in!" The dervis looked on composedly while the wall rose slowly around him, and made more noise than ever but when he perceived that they really meant to shut him up in a tomb alive he jumped over the lowest part of the wall and rushed away like a maniac. Sir John was probably the only European who ever got the better of a dervis.

INCONSTANCY

Against the curtained pane, beloved
The snow beats thick and fast
The wild wind's sorrowful refrain
Is telling of the past—
And in the old familiar chair
Beside the hearth fire's glow,
I sit and sing the tender air
You loved so long ago.

Ah, often since the springs beloved
Have bloomed above your rest,
I breathe the sweet old song that sings
Itself within my breast—
As children in the [illegible] days
When winter [illegible] lowers,
Retrace the garden's sodden ways
And talk of last year's flowers.

It never seemed to you beloved
When we walked hand in hand
Amid the sunshine and the dew
Of youth's enchanted land—
It never seemed to you or me
That I could sing or smile
If you were lying silently
Within your grave the while.

We thought we could not live beloved
If we were torn apart—
That earth would have no more to give
To either stricken heart—
Alas, the change that time has wrought!
Your grave has held you long,
And in a home where you are not,
I sing the dear old song.

Do you look back to me, beloved
From out your happy sphere,
And deem me false that I can be
Alive, and you not here?
[illegible] does not always bring its balm
To every aching ill—
Life may outlast its dearest charm
And heart break does not kill.

It would have been the same, beloved
Had I been first to die—
Another love had borne your name,
More dear perchance than I
Ah, after all these weary years,
Would you more constant be?
And would you drop these bitter tears,
And sing the song for me?

—The Aldine

THE NOVEL OF THE AGES

AN OLD TALE EVER NEW

Thackeray once said that there was nothing new under and including the sun King Solomon made a similar remark A novel, lately published illustrates the saying, whoever originated it. It is called by a variety of names, and is familiar to every novel-reader

The principal characters of our time-honored young friends Charles and Angelina, formerly Lubin and Chloe, once Corydon and Phillis, alias Romeo and Juliet, and so on to the remotest antiquity

Their principle speeches are as follows

He—Adorable creature! will you be mine? I offer you my hand and heart, together with superior inducements for accepting the same consisting of a brown stone front, an unincumbered real estate and first-class securities.

She—Object of my affections! Your terms are entirely satisfactory for me, and no doubt will be equally so to my papa, to whom I beg leave to refer you (Falling into his arms.)

These are plagiarisms more or less direct from the same old story, published at any time during the world's history between this time and the invention of letters which are not due to Prof Cadmus, by-the-bye but to Arm-Ah-Kim bo, 20,000 years before his time He published the first edition of the story in [illegible]

In the edition of 1,500 it appears as follows, He—Sweet [illegible] [illegible], [illegible] with thy love thy [illegible] who pledges thee his hand and heart. Certes, I offer thee no unequal dower These goodly towers and broad domains shall call thee mistress, and gold shall fill thy coffers.

She—My bosom's lord, thy nobleness is well [illegible] thy good love and well, I [illegible], will win my sire's consent. Good faith in Heaven a name seek him. (Lets down her [illegible] hair and swoons.)

Similarly, in A. D. 1,600 they courted thus:

He—Fayre lady, I [illegible] thine eyne on thy true knight, and [illegible] his devoir with thy love. By'r ladye! hee layes at thy feete guerdon meete for prize so high My castle's strengthe shall bid defiance to ye caytiffe foe, and gallant knights on yonder broad [illegible] lay lances in rest to win thy smyles, while churlish boors and [illegible] believing Jews shall furnish [illegible] broad [illegible] for thy [illegible].

She—Alack, sir knight, I yielde mee true [illegible] to thy wordes, [illegible] or noe succour [illegible] is thy [illegible]. [illegible] from my bouerre to ye knight, my sire, and bid him greet thee sonne. (She [illegible] his armes.

And in like manner through the early Saxon and [illegible] British dialects (which would be more intelligible than lovers' speeches generally are), the Latin and Greek, up to the original, as [illegible].

The Irish version is

M[illegible] darlint, it's dyin' I am for ye this bla[illegible] minnit, glory be to God! The shebeng is lonely widout you, Judy, come, acushla, there's an illegant patch of two dirty acres or so, with [illegible] and pigs galore, and [illegible] be [illegible] or two in his riverence's hand, waitin' to call you missthress

Be aisy, Pat, ye're the divil's own boy for [illegible] God knows sure the ould man's beyant, and when ye're dacent and sober you might ax him.

The Scotch version reads thus

Eh, lassie! wilt you take me for your ain joe? There's nae luck about the house till ye bide in t, and the bonnie farm and the wee bitt siller is nae sic bad investment

Hoot awa, man! dinna fash me wi your speerin I doot ye'll wan weel, sae bide awa, mon, bide awa, the auld man's by, and ye may e'en settle the case wi' him

The display of emotion is omitted by the last two ladies, but their sentiments are the same as the others, and the fortunes of the gentlemen not different; Charles goes to parliament and Pat to the common council Sir Reginald is elected to the round table and Romeo to the council of ten (or would have been if he hadn't poisoned himself) while Donald sits with the [illegible] in the kirk, and is as fat, respectable, and uninteresting as any of them

The chapters from which the foregoing specimens are taken wind up with these words 'To be continued'—which is true in every sense of the word. The rising generation will please take notice.

A FISHERMAN ATTACKED BY A SHARK

The Baltimore American of the 29th ult, gives the following account of an accident which recently befell a fisherman in the Chester river

"On Monday morning the 28th inst, about 6 30 o clock, while a party of fishermen were hauling a seine in Chester river just opposite the mouth of Grayson's Creek they noticed that there was a number of monstrous fish in the seine, and they at once started for the shore, for the purpose of securing them On nearing the land, they found that the sea weeds were in such profusion that it would be impossible to land the seine and, as the water where they were was only about waist deep two of the party James Green and James McCann both of this city jumped overboard and began taking up the seine, while the rest of the party pulled it into the yawl Nearly one-half of the seine had been taken in when suddenly the water was lashed to a foam by what seemed to be a school of monstrous fish The men grew excited and Green waded out several yards for the purpose of holding the net down to the bottom Just as he took hold of it his leg was seized by a shark, and he was drawn under the water where a terrible struggle ensued between the man and the shark Green's companions were so frightened that they stood still for some time and gazed with horror at the terrible scene In a few moments Green came to the surface and uttered a cry for help This roused his friends, and they went to his assistance when the shark retreated farther into the depths of the seine Green was taken into the boat when he became insensible and remained so for some time The shark had caught the calf of his left leg and completely stripped the flesh from the bones from above the knee down to his foot He was bleeding profusely from several of the larger arteries that had been severed, Mr McCann knew enough about surgery to bind a handkerchief tight around the mangled limb and prevented his bleeding to death The wounded man was brought to this city about 12 40 A M by the Chester river steamboat George Law after which he was removed to the Infirmary on the corner of Greenwich and Lombard where his leg was amputated He is an unmarried man thirty years of age and lived on Williams street a few doors west of Charles street It seems that the fishing parties had surrounded quite a number of sharks as there were more than one of the savage creatures in the net The fishermen succeeded in killing two of them the largest of which was eleven feet in length

MONDAY EVENING September 8 1873.

Gold in New York to-day 111¼.

Portland Legal Tender rates 86½ buying 87¼ selling

Gold bars are quotable at [illegible] fine

Exchange on San Francisco [illegible] per cent discount

Wheat in Liverpool—Average California 12s 10d@13s Club 13s 3d@13s 4d

As will be seen by our dispatches published elsewhere the fluctuations hinted at in previous reports as likely to take place at New York have come with rather more violence than was anticipated. The [illegible] patches [illegible] the [illegible] out to the press and state that during the day on Change gold at one time receded to 111 but afterward advanced to 111¾ at which it stood in the afternoon On the strength of these reports legal tenders in our market have advanced to 110½ per cent Our market however is so remote from the great money centers that we perhaps feel less the effect of these sudden fluctuations than the people of any other section of our country Hence what stirs all New York and sets men wild with excitement barely has the effect here to raise or depreciate the rates at which greenbacks are current The news to-day however has a broader significance It demonstrates the fact that certain manipulators of our currency have failed in their efforts and are powerless to produce a permanent disturbance of the legitimate business of the country For days the bulls have been laying the wires and getting ready to send gold up if possible among the twenties but their attempt has recoiled on themselves and they find themselves overloaded and borne down to a figure which doubtless means ruin for many of them

Grain Reports.

The New York Produce Exchange Weekly (official) of the 23d inst contains the following about the grain trade in different parts of the world,

From all parts of Oregon there are most gratifying reports of the Wheat crop From the Walla Walla district the threshings from 250 acres of Wheat gave an [illegible] product of 9,000 bushels, an average of 39 bushels per acre and from 150 acres 5 350 bushels or an average of [illegible] bushels per acre and reports from other and smaller fields give an average yield of 60 to 67 bushels per acre It is expected that the average Wheat yield of Oregon from the crop of 1873 will be 35 bushels an acre It is expected that the yield of the crop of 1873 will be one third greater than that of the crop of 1872

The farmers deliveries of home-grown Wheat in the 150 towns of England and Wales for the week ending August 2 1873 were 27 522 qrs at an average price of 59s 9d per qr against 82,601 qrs for the corresponding week in 1872, at an average price of 58s 5d per qr, and against an average of the corresponding weeks of the last ten years of 40 007 qrs at an average price of 55s per qr

"The imports of foreign grain and flour into the United Kingdom for the week ending August 2d, 1873 were Flour 92 196 cwts wheat 1,109 863 cwts corn 541,762 cwts, oats 540 329 cwts, barley, 124 432 cwts peas 18 003 cwts beans 55,291 cwts other grain, 34 cwts Total, 2,482,585 cwts.

The exports from the United Kingdom for the week ended August 2d 1873 were Flour 1 406 cwts wheat, 8,313 cwts barley 527 cwts peas, 73 cwts maize 60 cwts Total 10 381 cwts

The approximate supply of wheat for the week ending August 2d 1873 flour included comprising the farmers deliveries in the kingdom, plus the imports, minus the exports, was equal to 364,828 qrs against an estimated average weekly consumption of from 400,000 to 470,000 qrs per week The supply the previous week was 396,639 qrs, or a supply in two weeks from imports and deliveries of home-grown wheat of 762,461 qrs against a consumption in two weeks of 800,000 to 846 000 qrs, indicating that the stocks in granary were reduced in two weeks 83 539 quarters.

"The cable gives imports into the United Kingdom for the [illegible] ending August 16th 1873 Flour 45 000 to 50 000 bbls, wheat 180 000 to 194 000 qrs maize 110 000 to 120 000 qrs Floating cargoes of Maize on passage very firm, Wheat, floating cargoes of coast firm, and on [illegible] very firm In Mark Lane higher prices asked for Wheat but no advance established English markets are 6d to 1s dearer. French provincial markets generally dearer

"There was in transit for the United Kingdom on the 7th, 857,000 qrs of Wheat and 176 070 qrs of Maize exclusive of steamer shipments from American Atlantic ports, and the sail and steam shipments from the ports of the Baltic

SMALL POX.

DOCTOR BORZEAU'S SMALL POX REMEDY SAMUEL CORWIN Proprietor, can be procured at all the Drug Stores in this city at the present time As this medicine is proving an inestimable boon to those afflicted with that disease no person should neglect the present opportunity of providing themselves with this valuable antidote

Price ONE DOLLAR per bottle

Portland Oregon Aug 22, 1873

MR SAMUEL CORWIN—Sir In justice to yourself and for the benefit of those who may be afflicted with the small pox I am induced to give publicity to the following facts About the 25th of July 1873 I became very unwell having severe pain in my head back and limbs which continued to increase in severity for three or four days a very high fever set in and I began to break out on my face, neck and body with what proved to be small pox I procured of Dr Freeland of the Central Drug Store a bottle of your small pox remedy Notwithstanding the severity of the attack I administered the medicine myself not in accordance with accompanying directions but in about double doses In three days all pain and fever disappeared My recovery was extremely rapid notwithstanding frequent exposures by moving about from place to place while in a high fever which is generally considered fatal in that disease, and it is my firm conviction that under the ordinary treatment for that disease I would not be living to day I took of the medicine about two and a half bottles more perhaps than was necessary not wishing to discontinue until a thorough cure was effected

PETER BURK

I know of my own knowledge that the foregoing statement is true in every particular
